

CLEAN-UP WEEK SEEMS PROBABLE

Movement on Foot For Annual Spring Cleaning of City Meets
With Favor of Mayor Behout.

ONCE HELD IN RUSHVILLE

Then Only Day Was Observed, But Six Days, it is Believed, Offers Best Opportunity For Results.

There is a strong probability that a clean-up week will be observed in Rushville this spring. During the four years of the last administration repeated efforts were made to get the city officials to authorize some sort of a concerted movement to get rid of the accumulation of filth and trash of the winter.

Rushville was a pioneer in the clean-up day movement. The last year of Mayor Harvey M. Cowing's administration a clean-up proclamation was issued and the city united in making Rushville as near a spotless town as possible. The idea was popular and the general feeling was that it should be continued, but such was not the will of the officials who next came into office.

In the present movement, the most popular undertaking in cities of all sizes and descriptions is a clean-up week. This is advanced as the best plan because a week will give every resident of Rushville an opportunity to do some cleaning up. In addition bad weather would not be likely to prevail the whole week.

Mayor Clata L. Behout is favorable to the project and said today that he would introduce the subject to the city council. Some of the councilmen are reported to favor such a movement and there seems to be no doubt but that Rushville will have a clean-up week.

It is very probable that the Rushville Civic Improvement and Social Service association, the Boy Scouts, the Daughters of the American Revolution, all the women's clubs and other organizations which have the best interests of the city at heart will join heartily in the movement and lend their support to it.

Clean-up weeks have been ordered by the councils in a number of eastern Indiana towns. Last week the Seymour council took this step. The city wagons will haul away all debris in not too large quantities. Tree limbs will be burned. An effort will also be made to have old fences torn down or repaired, barns and fences painted or whitewashed and every thing else done that will add to the appearance of premises.

Health authorities are agreed that nothing will add more to the good health of a community than the annual cleaning up every spring. Rubbish and trash are the breeding places for disease germs.

AUTO THIEF HELD GUILTY

After Deliberating 18 hours Jury Finds Against Vernon Walters.

(By United Press.)

Winchester, Ind., Mar. 25.—After deliberating nearly eighteen hours, a jury in the Randolph circuit court today returned a verdict finding Vernon Walters guilty of larceny. The jury recommended that mercy be shown the defendant. Walters was charged with stealing a touring car from Victor Thornburg of Union City. He was arrested in Blomington after a fight with the police. He made an insanity plea.

WOMAN ENTERS THE RACE

Mary Walker Present Assistant, Wants Postoffice Appointed.

"Wherever you see a few of the 'faithful' gathered on the streets now, they are talking postoffice," said a Milroy resident today. This is the status of the case since the postoffice there has been raised to the third class and becomes a presidential office. Miss Mary Walker, who is assistant to Postmaster S. R. Stewart, has announced herself a candidate for the office. Stewart has held the office several years, having been recommended by James E. Watson when he was congressman. There are so many Democratic candidates that it would be difficult to count them on the fingers of your two hands, it is said.

POSTOFFICE FORCE HAS JOB BEFORE IT

Most Conduct a Careful Count on Parcel Post For 15 Days Beginning April 1.

MANY PHASES TO NEW ORDER

The postoffice here has received an order to keep a careful record of parcel post business beginning April 1 and continuing for fifteen days. The order states that the postoffice clerks are to note the number of incoming parcels, what per cent is for city distribution and what per cent goes to rural routes, and the weight of each, and the number from rural routes and from the city collected to send away, and into which zones they are sent. This count will make the postoffice employes a great amount of extra work.

More than 200 parcels are handled here in an average day and on some days this number is doubled. To tabulate each of these as it passes through the office will be no small task and the order requiring the count was received with no great enthusiasm.

HUGH COWAN DIES RATHER SUDDENLY

Uraemic Poisoning Which Developed Only Monday Causes Demise of Anderson Township Farmer.

FUNERAL WILL BE FRIDAY

Hugh Cowan, 35 years old, a well known resident of Anderson township, died last night at 11:15 o'clock at his home one-quarter of a mile east of Milroy, after a short illness from uraemic poisoning. Mr. Cowan had been in ill health for some time and about one year ago underwent an operation for appendicitis. Uraemic poisoning developed Monday and the end came suddenly. He was a member of the United Presbyterian church in Milroy and was a highly respected citizen.

Mr. Cowan is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Cowan, two sisters, Mrs. Frank McCorkle and Miss Anna and one brother, Will Cowan of Indianapolis. The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock in the Richland M. E. church and burial will take place in the cemetery there.

PIONEER OF THIS COUNTY EXPIRES

Augustus Miller, Age 87 Years, Dies at His Home in Greensburg of Pneumonia.

WAS REARED IN RICHLAND

Father of L. B. and J. F. Miller Served as Commissioner of Rush County Years Ago.

Augustus Miller, age eighty-seven years, father of L. B. Miller of this city and Jesse F. Miller of near Milroy, and a native of this county and former Rush county commissioner died yesterday at his home in Greensburg after a very brief illness with pneumonia.

Mr. Miller has always enjoyed good health up until a year ago, when he began to show signs of a breakdown brought on by old age. Pneumonia merely hastened his death. Mr. Miller celebrated his birthday only a week ago last Monday, which was the occasion for the gathering of all his children.

Mr. Miller was born on a farm in Richland township, February 16, 1827, and lived in that township until he was past middle age. He served one term as commissioner of this county by appointment and part of another term of Mr. Rankin's. Some of the commissioners in his day were Eli Buell, Robert A. Huddleson, H. H. Elwell and Robert M. Hinchman.

He was married to Miss Celia Winship at the age of 24. To this union six children were born, but only three are living, namely Oscar G., a prominent business man of Greensburg and the two sons in this county. Upon the death of his wife he retired from farm life and moved to Greensburg in 1881 where he has since resided.

Mr. Miller was remarried to Mrs. Sarilda Lanham in 1894, who survives him. No children were born to this union.

Mr. Miller was a Christian practically all his life, having belonged to the Methodist church for a period of 65 years and was always a faithful member.

He was a Republican all of his life. He cast his first presidential vote for the Whig ticket and voted for Zachariah Taylor in 1848. But, regardless of politics, he always had the interests of his fellow citizens and his county in his heart, and in his death the community loses a splendid, upright honorable citizen.

Mr. Miller has experienced all of the hardships encountered by a pioneer, having helped his father clear away his farm in the days when the wolves, wildcats and many other wild animals claimed this as their native lair. He had preserved his mother's spinning wheel which he prized very highly and took great pride in pointing it out to his guests and explaining that his mother had spun the cloth upon it which was later used in making his clothes.

The deceased was also successful in a financial, as well as many other ways having acquired a beautiful home where he lived and an improved farm of 140 acres in this county.

The funeral will take place at the home in Greensburg Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock and burial will take place in Richland cemetery.

SCHOOLS CLOSE FRIDAY.

The Rushville schools will be closed Friday to allow the teachers to attend the meeting of the State Teachers association in Indianapolis. The meeting will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, but only one day's vacation will be allowed

REPRESENTS LIFE'S WORK

Comes to Rushville Next Sunday as the Guest of National Reform Association, Foe of Liquor.

In the whirl of social reform and practical politics temperance looms up as a local, state or national problem, but seldom is it heard of as a world's issue. The international phase of the progressing world's temperance movement will be brought to Rushville on Sunday March 29th by one of the most striking figures in the universal uplift movement, the Rev. Dr. Robert J. (Catch-my-Pal) Patterson of Belfast, Ireland.

"Catch-my-Pal" Patterson much prefers to be called by this expressive nickname than by his more dignified title of Doctor because "Catch-my-Pal" represents his life's work. He comes to Rushville on Sunday, March 29th, as the joint guest of the Rushville Men's Big Meeting committee and the National Reform association which organization is doing so much to spread the cause of Temperance around the world in co-operation with other local, state, national and international associations. The National Reform association stands for the initial Christian work to be done in the Temperance work and therefore serves as the binding tie uniting all other temperance organizations.

It was the great Second Worlds Christian Citizenship Conference held at Portland, Oregon, last summer, that crystallized the international features of the progressing battle for temperance. Before multitudes numbering as many as 25,000 persons, representing fifteen Nations and all the states of the union "Catch-my-Pal" Patterson presented the world's vision of temperance and the whole Christian world there represented bid the National Reform Associations organize a world's temperance movement in conjunction with existing organizations and to aid all of them. This the National Reform association is doing in the largest way. It comes to the support of all existing temperance associations; co-operates in the distribution of literature, in the organization of demonstrations and in the correlating of temperance work in connection with all Christian work.

Nothing more scientific has been devised for the educational campaign now under way throughout and the men's mass meeting to be held in the M. E. church on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock is a definite part of this world's work and is essentially the work of the Men's Big Meeting committee which has already made a deep impress upon the whole work by its most intelligent activity.

"Catch-my-Pal" Patterson is one of the most eloquent men in the world. He not only instructs his hearers but he provides a rare entertainment for them. He knows the world's work as it is progressing and comes to Rushville to report on its present status.

The national meeting in the M. E. church is for men only.

All the clergy of Rushville will be enabled to meet Dr. Patterson with the women of their families half an hour before the evening address in the Christian church.

Jared Binford May Follow Wife Who Died at Carthage Last Night

Mrs. Emily Binford, age seventy years, a prominent member of the Friends faith in Ripley township, died at her home northwest of Carthage last night. She has been in very poor health for many months. Her husband, Jared Binford, is critically ill and is believed to be on his death bed. Mrs. Binford has been prominently identified with the Carthage Friends church all her life. The funeral will be held at the residence Friday morning by the Rev. J. Edgar Williams of the Carthage church and burial will take place in the church cemetery. No children were born to them.

DISMISSAL MAKES COURT DARK TODAY

Suit of John D. Hiner Against Ohio Construction Co. Not Tried When Called For Trial.

HEARING IN WALKER CASE

The damage suit of John D. Hiner against the Ohio Construction company, which was to have been heard this afternoon in the circuit court was dismissed by the plaintiff when the case was called. The case was taken to the circuit court from Squire Kratzer's court. Mr. Hiner demanded $29 from the defendant, alleging that the company was responsible for the destruction of a buggy owned by him. It was alleged that the horse frightened at an engine and in the runaway the buggy was demolished. When the case was heard by Squire Kratzer he found for the defendant and the case was appealed to the circuit court.

Judge Meggie heard the argument this morning on the petition of Mrs. Alberta Walker for possession of the automobile involved in the receivership proceedings against her husband, A. P. Walker. He took the case under advisement.

HIGH SCHOOL BURNS TODAY

Kokomo Building Destroyed by Fire at a Loss of $80,000.

(By United Press.)

Kokomo, March 25.—The high school building here burned early today with a total loss. Gas escaping in the basement ignited and caused the fire which was discovered at 3:00 a. m., and gained disastrous headway. The loss is estimated at $80,000, of which $65,000 was in the building, $10,000 in equipment and $5,000 in books belonging to the children. The building has been unsatisfactory for some time and the board had sold bonds of $150,000 for a new building. It will be erected this summer. When a wall of the east wing fell, firemen had narrow escapes. They worked hard to prevent the fire from spreading to the Central grade building forty feet distant.

WILD CONFUSION IN HOUSE

Winston Churchill Repudiates "Hell-

(By United Press.)

London, Eng., Mar. 25.—Amidst the wildest confusion in the House of Commons today, during which Winston Churchill, first Lord of the Admiralty completely lost his composure and was rebuked, the Asquith cabinet fought for its life.

The resignation of Secretary of War, Seely was announced on the floor by Premier Asquith, but by refusing to accept it, it was indicated that the entire cabinet would stand or fall together.

Every attempt was made to shield King George. Seely declared the king had in no way interfered. Premier Asquith and others tried in every possible way to answer the charge that the king had interfered.

"His majesty has observed at all times every rule of a constitutional monarch," Asquith declared.

Seely publically accepted full responsibility. Uproar followed the charge that Winston Churchill had hoped his measure would lead to bloodshed.

"I repudiate this hellish insinuation," cried Churchill.

A number were on their feet shaking their fists instantly.

It was also declared that David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, had taken steps to resign and it was persistently rumored that the retirement of the entire ministry is impending.

Responsibility for the entire army upheaval was placed on Seely by Premier Asquith. Seely today made

The Easier Way Is The Co-operative Way

There is no royal road to business success—but some ways are easier than others.

Co-operative advertising between merchants and manufacturers in the newspapers that directly reach the buying public is the modern "Easier Way."

When the manufacturer of a national distributed article puts his plea for business in the newspapers of this town he is making customers for your store as well as for himself, Mr. Dealer.

The more business he can send to the store the better off he is.

Conversely, every time the merchant treats a prospective customer pleasantly, shows the advertised article, and explains its merits, he is helping the manufacturer as well as himself.

It's a fair game of push and pull.

When manufacturer and merchant work together through the columns of the local newspapers they are moving to success along the "Easier Way."

Dispatches Received From American in Mexico City Says Federalists Won Back Lost Outpost.

NEWS CROWDED OFF WIRES

(By United Press.)

VILLA ADMITS IT.

Juarez, Mar. 25.—General Villa admitted this afternoon the Federalists are holding Torreon and that they have recaptured Gomez Palacio.

El Paso, Tex., Mar. 25.—The conviction that General Villa's Rebel army has met a serious check on Torreon is believed this afternoon, as a result of the ominous silence of Villa himself regarding the battle, on receipt of disquieting private telegrams received here.

A wealthy American, with large interests in Mexico, received a telegram from his partners in Mexico City today stating that General Velasco, Federal commander at Torreon, had repulsed the Rebel assault and had driven the Rebels out of Gomez Palacio. More than 500 Rebels have been slain, the telegram said.

According to close observers here Torreon has not yet fallen. War messages crowded dispatches off the wires today and the only word was "Villa is hammering away at Torreon." Not a word of news has come from the battle since yesterday.

Rushville Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove it.

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Rushville given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which proved so beneficial years ago with the kidneys can naturally be expected to perform the same work in similar cases. Read this:

Harrison Levi, 931 N. Sexton St., Rushville, Ind., says: "I had to get up several times at night to pass the kidney secretations, which were some times attended with pain. I had severe backaches, too. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at Johnson & Co's Drug Store and it did not take them long to make me well. The pains left and the action of my kidneys became regular. I am now free from kidney weakness. I am glad to confirm what I said about Doan's Kidney Pills in my former endorsement."

WE are doing considerable research work, and would like to know what opinion the women of this town have of Gelatine.

Do you use Gelatine? How do you use it? What brand do you use? Why do you use that brand? Have you originated any special recipes calling for Gelatine? Do you prefer the "flavored packages" to plain Gelatine? Why? Does the fact that most "flavored packages" make only one pint as against the two quart plain Gelatine package, make any difference to you?

We want to hear from women who have used Gelatine. It makes no difference what kind. We simply want expressions of opinion direct from the women who use Gelatine. We are willing to pay for them.

For the letter which gives us the most information about Gelatine, we will pay $25.00; for the next best, $15.00; for the next best, $10.00; and for the next best, $5.00 each; total $100.00—cash.

CONTEST CLOSES APRIL 15TH

There are no strings to this offer, so sit down and tell us what you know about Gelatine. You stand just as good a chance as anybody else of winning the first prize. We are not looking for masterpieces of literature. Even if you do not win a cash prize, you will receive a little package of Gelatine, which will repay you well for your effort. Why we also have your grocer's name?

Society News

The Tri Kappas will be entertained tonight by Miss Norma Smith at her home in East Sixth street. A large attendance is desired as important business will be discussed.

Miss Bertha Kamer, daughter of Walter Ramer of Decatur county, and Ray Tynes of this county were married at the home of a relative of the bride in Milroy today by the Rev. Clyde Black of the Methodist church.

A wedding, which will come as a surprise to their many friends and relatives in this city, will be solemnized tonight at eight o'clock in Indianapolis, when Miss Katharina H. Schenke and Albert Miller will be married. Miss Schenke is a well known woman of this city, having been employed at the Sexton Sanatorium for the last few years. Mr. Miller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Miller of this city, and formerly lived here. Mr. Miller was engaged in the grocery business while in this city. The marriage will take place at the Methodist parsonage and the ceremony will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Stormes. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will be at home, 206 East 24th street after tomorrow.

A beautiful but quiet wedding was solemnized Sunday afternoon at the Main street Christian parsonage by Rev. C. M. Yoenum. The bride was Miss Grace, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Ellison, and the bridegroom, Mr. George William Clingman, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Clingman. The young people were well known and highly respected in and around the Homer vicinity. The bride and bridegroom were attended by the bride's four sisters Misses Maggie, Hattie, Lina and Eva Ellison and Mr. Flea Burton and Roy Holbert of Milroy. The bride was gowned in a tailored blue suit with hat to match. The young people will go to housekeeping in a short time on a farm two miles east of Homer.

Amusements

The Princess will show a two reel feature "A Thief of Hearts" for tonight. It is said to be a dramatic picture telling a thrilling story and is beautifully acted. One of the scenes shows a bull fight which is said to be very realistic. The other picture is a Lubin drama entitled "A Servant of the Rich." Tomorrow night a two reel Vitagraph "Officer John Donovan" will be shown.

The Gem offers a two reel Bison drama "The Flash of Fate" for the first picture tonight. William Clifford is featured and it is said to be a thrilling western drama. The other is a Joker comedy entitled "The Mystery of a Taxicab." Tomorrow night Edwin August will be seen in a Powers drama "Trust Begets Trust."

Swat Them Now

The fly is not damaged by its enemies in the fall of the year when the enemies are greatest in number. Then Mr. and Mrs. Fly are so well entrenched that they pay no attention to the onslaughts of the populace. A person here and there may swat a dozen or so in July, August or September, but there are always a million or so coming on to fill the place in the line where the one has just been killed.

What we need to do is SWAT THE FLY JUST AS SOON AS HE APPEARS. Let's don't give him a chance here in Rushville to get started. If he never gets a good hold, he can never accomplish much. Let's murder him the minute he lifts his head up. Give him no quarter. Show him no mercy.

They have been hibernating for several months in the attics, closets, cellars and any other warm places where they could conceal themselves for the winter. During these first few warm days in March they crawl out and begin limbering up. The female lays eggs on filth of some sort. This is one of the prime necessities for keeping all garbage or other waste matter covered up. If the fly has no refuse to live on, he must of necessity die.

The average number of eggs is 120, but they often run up to almost 1,000. If all the progeny from one female were to survive and propagate their kind for only forty days the total number of children and grand-children and all of the heirs would weigh 1620 pounds.

It is because of their wonderfully prolific breeding that a few sleepy, half-frozen flies in March can fill the whole town full of buzzing, swarming, filth-carrying, disease-dealing, deadly flies in six or eight weeks.

If you have a swat in you, let it go now and make it count, because a fly killed now is worth millions in August.

DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

James Magee Expires at Home in Blue Ridge.

James M. Magee, 45 years old, died Monday morning shortly after midnight at his home in Blue Ridge after a long illness from dropsy. He formerly lived in Shelbyville but since the first of January until a week ago he lived in Moscow. Together with his family he moved to Blue Ridge last week. Mr. Magee was a barber by trade and was well known in that section of the county. He is survived by his widow and eight children. The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in Shelbyville.

Greatest Debt to Browning Is That He Taught that Truth Is Immortal

"Whatever I may owe to Browning for leading me from agnosticism; in whatever degree I may be indebted to Browning for the teaching that in endeavor, not attainment, lies the best; whatever my debt to him for all of these is, my greatest debt is for his teaching that truth is immortal, that the best of everything lives," said the Rev. F. C. S. Wicks, pastor of the All Souls Unitarian church, who lectured at the court house assembly room last night under the auspices of the library board on "The Religious Teachings of Robert Browning."

The Rev. Mr. Wicks quoted passage after passage of Browning to show his expression of faith in the eternalness of truth and the moral-ity of man. He also sought to show Browning as a philosopher and as an optimist.

There were probably a hundred and fifty people at the lecture, several times as many as were out for the first lecture of the course several weeks ago. The members of the library board were very much pleased with the attendance.

The storm caused a disappointment when Mr. Wicks was first announced to speak here. He commented facetiously on his failure to arrive, but said that he made a special effort to fill the engagement anyway to prove that he was not the person those who came the first time had calculated him to be.

He said that so few knew Browning because of the difficulty there is in reaching him. But, as a student of Browning, having been a member of the Boston Browning club, he assured the audience that there was enough of gold in his poetry to make worth while all the quartz that had to be passed through to reach it.

Dr. Wicks pictured Browning as a true philosopher; one who philosophizes in a bright vein. "All is right with the world," he quoted from "Pippa Passes." "Not a blemish. Whatever may be wrong with him as an individual, there is nothing wrong with his view of the world."

Dr. Wicks asked pardon for a personal reference, but he declared that Browning led him from the mazes of agnosticism; give him the key and then showed him how to use it.

He showed how Browning taught that the glory in life lay not in accomplishment, the vulgar conception, but in endeavor; for no man gains unless through a struggle.

Dr. Wicks led up through the stages of thought on religion. He spoke first of the Persian faith, the two extremes, God on the one hand and the Devil on the other; then of the Buddhistic, when the teaching was that everything was not what it seemed; and lastly to modern conception of religion. Dr. Wicks said that religion primarily was man's seeking after a home in the universe.

In connection with his discussion of Browning's teachings on the mortality of man and the divinity of God, he called attention to the fact that the poet often referred to the continuity of the personality in the hereafter.

In closing he laid special stress on Browning's teaching that the best of life is eternal; that it lives on and on no matter how it may have seemed for the time to be torn down and lost.

This Time Terre Haute Men Are Accused of Inciting Riot.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., Mar. 25.—Charged with conspiring to destroy property of the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction company, three men were indicted by the grand jury this afternoon. It is alleged they conspired to incite riot by calling a strike of the employees on the road. They are Chief of Police Ed Holler; Hilton Redman, lawyer and politician and Ed L. Brown, labor leader. Sidney Oynett was indicted on a charge of election frauds similar to that on which Mayor Roberts is being tried.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, March 25.—Judge C. M. Fortune today gave sentence of thirty days and fines of $100 each to Police Chief Ed Holler, Building Inspector Henry Raebler and Harry Montgomery, superintendent of the board of works, when he found them guilty of contempt in their efforts to obtain records of court to be used in the trial of Mayor Donn M. Roberts on charges of election fraud. He suspended sentence when the three men apologized. Raebler, who swore to the affidavit used in the raid, said he was sorry he did it. Peter B. May, assistant city attorney, was disbarred from taking further part in the Roberts trial.

The Abysmal Brute

By JACK LONDON

Copyright, 1913, by The Century Co.

CHAPTER VII.

SHE looked accusingly at Glendon, who immediately became awkward. To her it was delicious—a shy young man with the body of a giant who was one of the kings of bruisers and who read poetry and went to art exhibits and experimented with color photography!

Of a surety there was no abysmal brute here. His very shyness, she divined now, was due to sensitiveness and not stupidity. Shakespeare's "Sonnets!"

This was a phase that would bear investigation. But Stubener stole the opportunity away and was back chanting his everlasting statistics.

A few minutes later and most unwittingly she opened up the biggest lead of all. That first sharp attraction toward him had begun to stir again after the discovery of the "Sonnets."

The magnificent frame of his, the handsome face, the chaste lips, the clear looking eyes, the fine forehead which the short crop of blond hair did not hide, the aura of physical well being and cleanness which he seemed to emanate—all this and more that she sensed drew her as she had never been drawn by any man, and yet through her mind kept running the nasty rumors that she had heard only the day before at the Courier-Journal office.

"You were right," she said. "There is something more important to talk about. There is something in my mind I want you to reconcile for me. Do you mind?"

Pat shook his head. "If I am frank—abominably frank? I've heard the men, sometimes, talking of particular fights and of the betting odds, and while I gave no heed to it at the time, it seemed to me it was firmly agreed that there was a great deal of trickery and cheating connected with the sport. Now, when I look at you, for instance, I find it hard to understand how you can be a party to such cheating. I can understand your liking the sport for a sport, as well as for the money it brings you, but I can't understand!"

"There's nothing to understand," Stubener broke in, while Pat's lips were wreathed in a gentle, tolerant smile. "It's all fairy tales, this talk about faking, about fixed fights and all that rot. There's nothing to it, Miss Sangster, I assure you. And now let me tell you about how I discovered Mr. Glendon. It was a letter I got from his father!"

But Maud Sangster refused to be sidetracked, and addressed herself to Pat.

"Listen. I remember one case particularly. It was some fight that took place several months ago—I forget the contestants. One of the editors of the Courier-Journal told me he intended to make a good winning. He didn't hope; he said he intended. He said he was on the inside and was betting on the number of rounds. He told me the fight would end in the nineteenth. This was the night before."

"And the next day he triumphantly called my attention to the fact that it had ended in that very round. I didn't think anything of it one way or the other. I was not interested in prizefighting then. But I am now. At the time it seemed quite in accord with the vague conception I had about fighting. So you see it isn't all fairy tales, is it?"

"I know that fight," Glendon said. "It was Owen and Murgweather. And it did end in the nineteenth round. Sam. And she said she heard that round named the day before. How do you account for it, Sam?"

"How do you account for a man picking a lucky lottery ticket?" the manager evaded, while getting his wits together to answer. "That's the very point. Men who study form and condition and seconds and rules and such things often pick the number of rounds, just as men have been known to pick hundred to one shots in the races. And don't forget one thing, for every man that wins there's another that loses, there's another that didn't pick right. Miss Sangster, I assure you, on my honor, that faking and fixing in the fight game is—nonexistent."

"What is your opinion, Mr. Glendon?" she asked.

"The same as mine," Stubener snatched the answer. "He knows what I say is true, every word of it. He's never fought anything but a straight fight in his life. Isn't that right, Pat?"

"Yes, it's right," Pat affirmed; and the peculiar thing to Maud Sangster was that she was convinced he spoke the truth.

She brushed her forehead with her hand, as if to rid herself of the bewilderment that clouded her brain.

"Listen," she said. "Last night the same editor told me that your forthcoming fight was arranged to the very round in which it would end."

Stubener was verging on a panic, but Pat's speech saved him from replying.

"Then the editor lies," Pat's voice boomed now for the first time. "He did not lie before, about that other fight," she challenged.

"What round did he say my fight with Nat Powers would end in?" Before she could answer the manager was into the thick of it. "Oh, rats, Pat!" he cried. "Shut up. It's only the regular run of ring rumors. Let's get on with this interview."

He was ignored by Glendon, whose eyes, bent on hers, were no longer mildly blue, but harsh and imperative. She was sure now that she had stumbled on something tremendous, something that would explain all that had baffled her.

At the same time she thrilled to the mastery of his voice and gaze. Here was a man who would take hold of life and shake out of it what he wanted.

"What round did the editor say?" Glendon reiterated his demand. "For the love of Mike, Pat, stop this foolishness," Stubener broke in. "I wish you would give me a chance to answer," Maud Sangster said.

"I guess I'm able to talk with Miss Sangster," Glendon added. "You get out, Sam. Go off and take care of that photographer."

They looked at each other for a tense, silent moment, then the manager moved slowly to the door, opened it and turned his head to listen.

"And now what round did he say?" "I hope I haven't made a mistake," she said tremulously, "but I am very sure that he said the sixteenth round."

She saw surprise and anger leap into Glendon's face, and the anger and accusation in the glance he cast at his manager, and she knew the blow had driven home.

And there was reason for his anger. He knew he had talked it over with Stubener, and they had reached a decision to give the audience a good run for its money without unnecessarily prolonging the fight and to end it in the sixteenth.

And here was a woman from a newspaper office naming the very round.

Stubener, in the doorway, looked limp and pale, and it was evident he was holding himself together by an effort.

"I'll see you later," Pat told him. "Shut the door behind you."

The door closed and the two were left alone. Glendon did not speak.

The expression on his face was frankly one of trouble and perplexity.

"Well?" she asked. He got up and towered above her, then sat down again, moistening his lips with his tongue.

"I'll tell you one thing," he finally said. "The fight won't end in the sixteenth round."

She did not speak, but her unconvinced and quizzical smile hurt him.

"You wait and see, Miss Sangster, and you'll see that editor man is mistaken."

"You mean the program is to be changed?" she queried audaciously.

He quivered to the cut of her words. "I am not accustomed to lying," he said stiffly, "even to women."

"Neither have you to me, nor have you denied the program is to be changed. Perhaps, Mr. Glendon, I am stupid, but I fail to see the difference in what number the final round occurs so long as it is predetermined and known."

"I'll tell you that round, and not another soul shall know."

She shrugged her shoulders and smiled.

"It sounds to me very much like a racing tip. They are always given that way, you know. Furthermore, I am not quite stupid, and I know there is something wrong here."

"Why were you made angry by my naming the round? Why were you angry with your manager? Why did you send him from the room?"

For reply Glendon walked over to the window as if to look out, where he changed his mind and partly turned, and she knew without seeing that "I am very sure that he said the sixteenth round."

he was studying her face. He came back and sat down.

"You've said I haven't lied to you, Miss Sangster, and you were right. I haven't."

He paused, groping painfully for a correct statement of the situation.

"Now, do you think you can believe what I am going to tell you? Will you take the word of a prizefighter?"

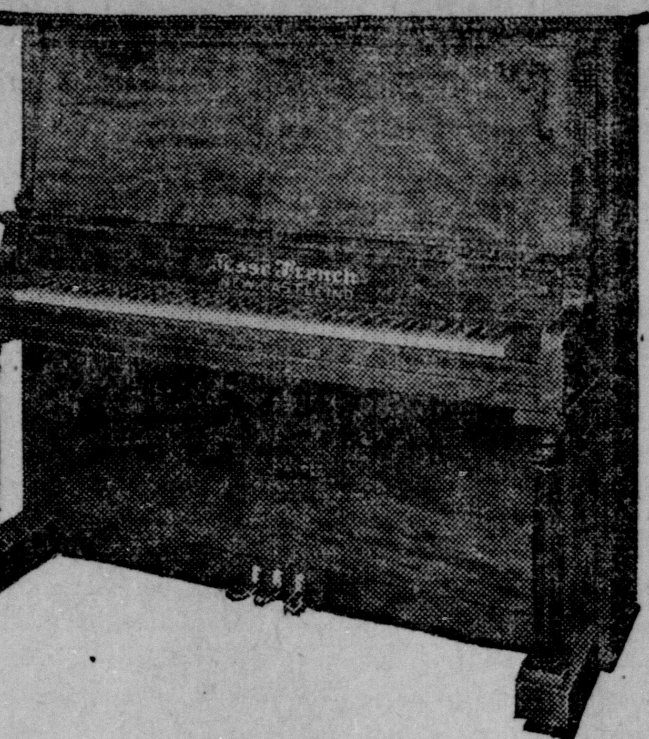

She nodded gravely, looking him straight in the eyes and certain that what he was about to tell was the truth.

"I've always fought straight and square. I've never touched a piece of

Buggies for all the People

In Rush county that will need Buggies, and you will find them at J. W. TOMPKINS' place of business on First street, south of the court house.

I will not have a big opening, but will have as much goods in my place as any other store in the city. I will have as many Buggies as any dealer in the city, and they will be as good, if not better, for I ought to know what a Buggy is, for I have sold more Buggies in the last twenty (20) years than any dealer in the state, and in all my dealings I never misrepresent a job in my life to sell one. Isn't that true, Sam. You know Sam Young won't lie. I will say this, if you show me or John Cohee when either of us have lied to sell a job and get the man's money, I have the money to pay him back. J. W. Tompkins sells the best goods of any firm in the county. Don't pass me by but come in and see what I have when you come to the "Big Opening." I have most anything you want, and the best line of Heavy Harness you ever saw in Rushville — made in my store by 3 of the best workmen in the state. It will pay you to see them.

JOE ROACH TELLS OF TERRE HAUTE

Former Convict and Now Special Prosecutor Describes Conditions in no Uncertain Terms

OVERTURNS WHOLE SYSTEM

Says a Lawyer of High Ideals Would Starve to Death There—is Picturesque Figure

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., March 25—
With the picturesque figure of Special Prosecutor Joseph Roach rivaling that of Mayor Donn Roberts in the trial of the latter here for election frauds, the United Press sought from a personal statement of his life.
He described himself frankly as a former "ward-heeler" and convict and spoke in no uncertain terms of the conditions in Terre Haute. He wrote the following for the United Press:

"I was born in Terre Haute October 16, 1878. I received a common school and high school education. At about the age of 18 I drifted into petty politics and became at 19 a full-fledged "ward-heeler."

"My political connections brought me into association with the gambling fraternity. Our city at that time was a mecca for gentlemen of that cult. Before I was 21 I was well versed in the esoteric practices of that cult.

"At the age of 21 I took to the road, travelling the country over,
having my headquarters in Chicago.
My experience at this time was full of color, life and action. I came in contact with various types of men pursuing various means of obtaining a livelihood.

"In 1905 while on a visit home I took human life and was sentenced to life imprisonment for the offense.
While in prison I, like the prodigal son, came to myself. I resolved to reconstruct my disintegrated character and to equip myself for a useful career in event I should ever be permitted to walk from the gloomy precincts of the prison a free man.

"During the period of nearly five years during which I was incarcerated at Michigan City I studied law and delved into literature. Upon being paroled by Governor Marshall in 1910 I entered a law office here and endeavored to observe the practices of law from the viewpoint of its practical application. Eighteen months later I secured a full and complete pardon and on that day was admitted to practice at the Vigo bar.

"While in prison, living as I did among the best thought and highest ideals of all the ages—for I lived there with the great masters of thought and language—I formed ideals that I thought I could carry with me into the practice of law.
But upon beginning practice I was quickly disillusioned. For the lawyer of high ideals in Terre Haute would starve to death. I saw mere puppets who had been admitted to the bar without any previous study on their part, but whose chief distinction was their ability to cheat at elections, making money while I fared very unsatisfactorily. In order to keep from starving to death I had to repudiate these high ideals. I got down into the dirty bulging myself.

"This was briefly the situation
when a couple of months ago I resolved to direct my feeble efforts toward the complete overturning of a system, the development of years, the roots of which run deep into our society, and a system which for villainy and scoundrelism is absolutely unsurpassed in the annals of American civilization.

"The results of this effort I cannot forecast, yet I feel it will be productive of infinite good."
